March is here already and Spring is just around the corner, Tuesday, March 19th. March winds and April showers, supposedly bring about May flowers. Ralph Waldo Emerson describes an hour in the month of March as calm and volatile, all at once. So far, the winter has brought us cloudy days, a lot of rain and only a light coating of snow. We'll just have to wait and see what this month brings.

Events in March include Daylight Savings Time starting on the 10th, St. Patrick's Day on the 17th. On March 24th we celebrate Palm Sunday and March 31st is Easter Sunday.

Other news, Optimum is continuing to install fiber cable in the community. At some point, they will be bringing the fiber to each home. Once that is completed, Optimum will be contacting the homeowners for an appointment to bring the fiber into the house and provide the new TV boxes.

Stay safe and enjoy this transitional weather month.

All About...The Ides of March

by Mary J. Collins

You've probably heard the soothsayer's warning to Julius Caesar in William Shakespeare's play of the same name: "Beware the Ides of March." Not only did Shakespeare's words stick, but they also branded the phrase—and the date, March 15—with a dark and gloomy connotation. It's likely that many people who use the phrase today don't know its true origin.

The Ides of March (/aɪdz/; Latin: Idus Martiae, Late Latin: Idus Martii) is the 74th day in the Roman calendar, corresponding to March 15. It was marked by several religious observances and was a deadline for settling debts in Rome. In 44 BC, it became notorious as the date of the assassination of Julius Caesar, which made the Ides of March a turning point in Roman history.

The Romans tracked time differently than we do today. They did not number each day of a month from the first to the last day. Instead, they counted back from three fixed points of the month: the Nones (the 5th or 7th, eight days before the Ides), the Ides (the 13th for most months, but the 15th in March, May, July and October) and the Kalends (1st of the following month). Originally the Ides were supposed to be determined by the full moon, reflecting the lunar origin of the Roman calendar. In the earliest calendar, the Ides of March would have been the first full moon of the new year.

Today, in our modern world, just about every pop culture reference to the Ides of March—save for those appearing in actual history-based books, movies or television specials—makes it seem like the day itself is cursed. For example, in 2011, Columbia Pictures released The Ides of March, a movie about an idealistic campaign staffer (Ryan Gosling) who gets a harsh lesson in dirty politics while working for an up-and-coming presidential candidate (George Clooney). The movie involves quite a bit of figurative backstabbing, but it's a pretty clear allegory for the death of Julius Caesar.

Did the assassination of Julius Caesar forever curse March 15th or was it just Shakespeare's mastery of language that forever darkened this day? If you look through history, you can certainly find enough horrible things that happened on March 15, but is it a case of life imitating art? Or art imitating life?

"Beware the Ides of March."

BOOK NOTES

by Dorothy Scheuer

THE FAREWELL TOUR, by Stephanie Clifford

When fictional country singer/songwriter/musician Lillian Waters, aka Water Lil, wrote her breakout song "Women's Work," this was her process:

She went with the feeling around a memory of being constrained as a little girl, while boys got to be out doing whatever they liked. Her mind went to school recess, where the girls were ladylike, playing jacks or jumping rope in a contained area, while the boys got to be boisterous. She thought of the nursery rhymes they chanted, like "Ring Around the Rosie" and "London Bridge." It seemed to her that that kind of chant would be a good place to start a song—but about housework rather than play.

She came up with Wash it, dry it / Sweep it, dust it / Cook it, bake it / Start again. She used her guitar to find an up-tempo melody.

Then she took a notepad and "wrote down every saying I could think of about women and men." When she came to "A woman's work is never done," she recognized it as her song's title.

"The rhythm had the right emphases to translate easy to a song," she says as first-person narrator of The Farewell Tour (2023, HarperCollins). "A woman's work is never done—and the consonants made it easy to sing fast without sounding slurred."

Back with her guitar, she tried different ways of singing that phrase to let "wash it, dry it" be sung at the same time as "a woman's work is never done" in the chorus.

Then she listed all the rhymes she could think of for "done": gun, fun, run. She liked "fun," and wrote a verse from the point of view of a new wife addressing her husband: When it's Friday and you're looking for some fun / You're off drinking and you're dancing with someone / While a woman's work is never done. So much, she intended the song to say, for thinking that the women's work we resent as girls might end with marriage.

Lil tinkered with the lyrics and the chords for three more days, then brought the song to her singing partner for some collaboration.

The Farewell Tour is a novel-length country song about the career of a woman who came from nothing, hit the highest height she could hit, pushed it further (and fell back some) and then was diagnosed with a performance-threatening throat ailment; hence her farewell tour.

Author Stephanie Clifford is an investigative journalist who has written for the New York Times, the Atlantic, the New Yorker, the Economist and Bloomberg Businessweek. She tells Lil's story in flashbacks between the Depression-era childhood Lil is determined to remember and the farewell tour she embarks on in 1980.

Fine Art at Leisure Glen

Artist of the Month for February was Dorothea McMahon

The Artist of the month for February was Dorothea McMahon a very new and talented member of our community. As soon as Dorothea joined our Art League it was evident that she was loaded with Artistic ability and willing to join in using that talent when needed. She joined right in working on group projects including the Art Leagues newest contribution to the Men's Club annual Christmas Party creating one of our Peep Boards for the grandkids.

Receiving a John Nagy Art set from her aunt and uncle sparked a real love of drawing (and kneadable erasers) at an early age. Art was always a place to escape. She loved decorating bulletin boards and making murals in school.

She received her BA in Art Education from C.W. Post but decided not to teach. She married Chris in 1983, raised two daughters, and continued to use Art to create calligraphy, quilts, had a sign business, painted murals, and painted over 1,000 Christmas balls that were sold at local craft sales.

She took many classes over the years, including watercolor, paper making, and Ukrainian egg decoration in Gallery North in Setauket. Watercolor is her favorite medium and she's created a collection of 3D paper buildings and rooms that can be seen on her instagram page under the name of "doromaddy." She and her husband's decision to move to The Glen was in part because she was so impressed by the clubhouse and by the opportunity to continue to be creative in this very active and talented community.

"Dress a Girl Around the World" is a campaign by Hope for Women International, an organization whose goal is to bring dignity to women around the world.

Members of St Mark's parish meet regularly to cut donated fabric and create kits to make dresses for village girls in Haiti. Delivery of the dresses is personally overseen by a St Mark's parishioner who travels there with a volunteer medical team. The stories she tells of the children who live in villages that can't even provide clean water and sanitation are heartbreaking. The kits have recently begun to include patterns for shorts as well. Everything you will need, including instructions to sew a dress or pair of shorts, is included in each kit. We invite anyone who wishes to sew to pick up a kit and simply return it when your item is completed. Feel free to add any embellishments you wish. Please make sure to sew the included label onto the pocket of the dress to protect the children from predators, since the label indicates that an organization is looking after the wearer.

THE BOX OF DRESS KITS IS IN THE FIBRE ARTS ROOM IN THE GLEN CLUBHOUSE. PLEASE RETURN YOUR DRESS TO THE SAME BOX. (PLEASE FOLD AND RETURN IN ORIGINAL BAG).

A Little Levity

DANOLOGY

By Dan Grenowski

- Life is full of disappointments....Just ask my grandparents.
- Believe it or not, I'm the normal one in my family.
- Fat people are harder to kidnap.
- My inner child is a mean little jerk.
- To save time, let's assume I am never wrong.
- Nobody notices what I do until I don't do it.
- Guys on the board said, "teamwork" means never having to take all the blame.
- Don't retire yet, keep on working...millions on welfare depend on you.
- I don't mind going to work - it's the 8 hour wait to go home that's tough.

WIFE'S CAT

A man hated his wife's cat and he decided to get rid of it. He drove twenty blocks away from home and dropped the cat there. The cat was already walking up the driveway when he approached his home.

The next day he decided to drop the cat forty blocks away but the same thing happened. At last, he decided to drive a few miles away, turning right, then turning left, passing the bridge, then right again and another right until he reached what he thought was the perfect spot and dropped the cat.

Hours later, the man called his wife at home and asked her, "Jane is the cat there" Yes, was her reply, "Why do you ask?" Frustrated the man said, "Put the cat on the phone! I am lost and need directions".

DOUBLE ENTENDRES

- A vulture boards a plane carrying two dead raccoons. The stewardess looks at him and says' "I'm sorry sir, only one carrion per passenger".
- Two boll weevils grew up in the deep South. One went to Hollywood and became a famous actor. The other stayed behind in the cotton fields and never amounted to much. He became known as the lesser of two weevils.
- An Eskimo adrift at sea in a kayak lit a fire to keep warm. The boat was set ablaze and sank proving you can't have your kayak and heat it too.
- A three legged dog walks into a saloon and announces, "I'm looking for the varmint that shot my paw."
- A Buddhist refused Novocain during a root canal operation. He wanted to transcend dental medication.
- A Group of chess enthusiasts were standing in a hotel lobby discussing their recent tournament victories. The manager came out of his office and asked them to disperse. He simply couldn't tolerate chess nuts Boasting in an open foyer.

POETIC THOUGHT

With deepest humility, I close to perfection
I am brighter than anyone I KNOW
What is so frustrating about my brilliance?
It offers so little room to GROW.

DONORS

There is a place in heaven for donors....
Their compassion permits others to SURVIVE.
When these donors are called up to heaven,
There will be standing ovation when they ARRIVE.

St. Paddy's Day Treat

IRISH SODA BREAD

INGREDIENTS

4 cups flour	1 cup raisins
2 tsp. baking powder	1 tsp baking soda
1 tsp. salt	4 oz. softened butter
1 cup sugar	2 eggs
1-1/4 cup buttermilk or * soured milk
1 tbsp. caraway seeds

- In a large bowl, combine all ingredients and mix until well blended. Batter will be stiff
- Grease bread tins w/Crisco oil or Pam spray and place batter in tins. Slash top w/X
- Bake in a 350 degree oven for 1 hr. (test w/ toothpick and if it comes out clean and dry, remove from oven)
- Place breads on cookie racks and let cool

* To sour milk, use 1 to 1-1/2 tbsp. of lemon juice and let it sit for 10-15 min.

Helpful hint: If using a mixer, put some milk in the bottom first and then add the dry ingredients. This way, all mixture will be well blended.

Slice bread and serve with butter. Makes two loaves in 8" loaf pans. You can heat bread in micro if you prefer it warm. (I do.)

Enjoy and Happy St. Patrick's Day.
